

As we begin implementing Common Core it is essential that we support our teachers with the tools that are needed for true integration of technology into the instruction. As we begin to bring more technology into the classrooms we need to be able to build ports for easy access for all students.